Chief Editor: Burhanuddin Salim, Year 8

It is estimated that some 800 million people in the world suffer from hunger and malnutrition, about 100 times as many as those who actually die from it each year.

Hunger is amongst the most major problems on this planet.

We the students of year 8b have recently done a survey regarding hunger in this world. This survey was done on the orientation day at the 24th of Sept. this activity not only resulted an informative meeting for parents but also for the students. We told all the parents and staff that the results of this survey will be analyzed and sent via email or circular, we have finished analyzing the data and created it into a pie chart based on the marks.

Coming to what our parents told us could help is many things the most popular ones were "Everybody should contribute", "Share your food don't waste it".

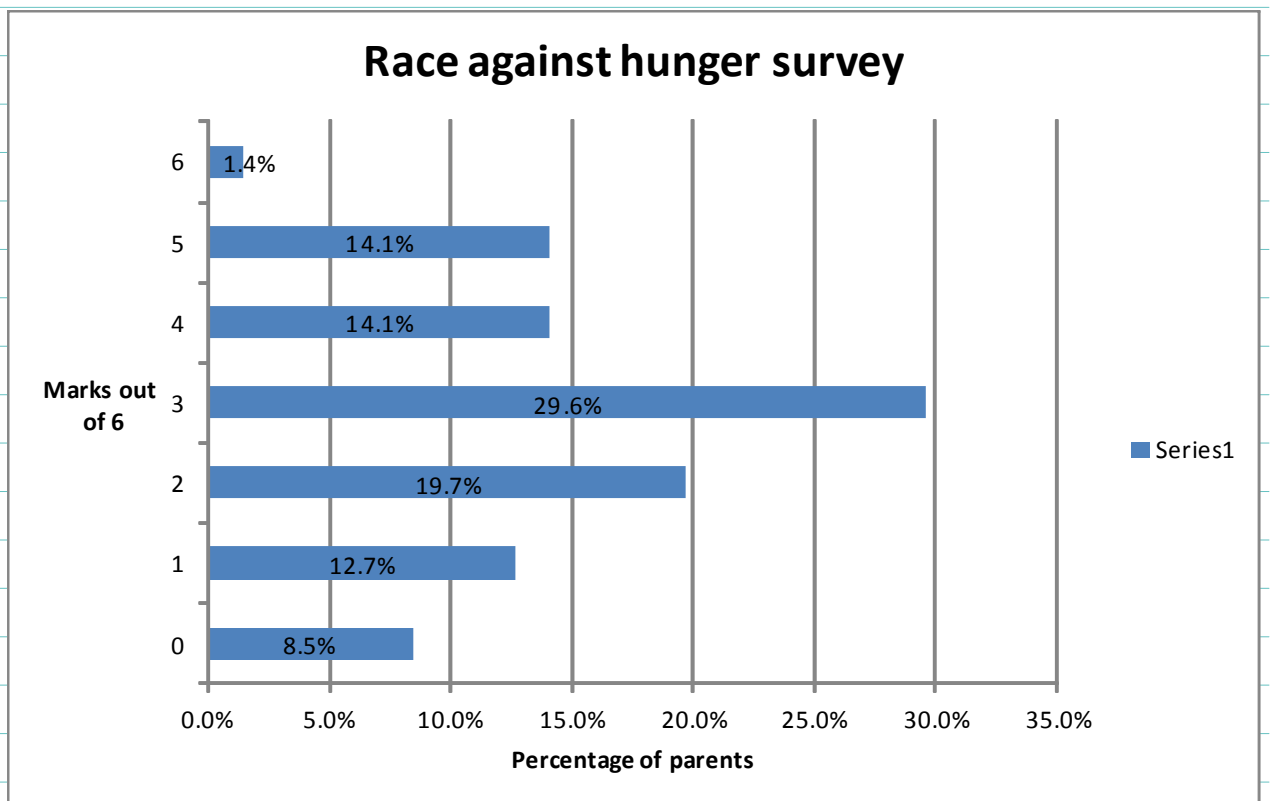

Some of them even pointed out that even we mu'mineen are making an effort to end hunger on this planet, our aqa moula<sup>tu</sup> has started the thali system which makes sure that all the mu'mineen are given at least one meal a day. By this survey we have hardened the knowledge our parents have, regarding hunger over the world.

Mother Teresa, the gift to humanity once said

"If you can't feed a hundred, then just feed one"

Book Review, 'Hunger Games' by Suzanne Collins

Its combination of nerve-racking tension, thrilling action, and engaging love story kept me up until the wee hours. I was surprised at how completely engrossing the plot was. This story is set in a future where the government oppresses its people, but the book also borrows ideas from the Greek myth of Theseus and the Minotaur.

The Games pit children from ages 12 to 18 against each other in a fight to the death in a giant, treacherous arena. Everything is televised and highly publicized all over the country. Katniss must not only survive the Games, but deal with a romance between her and another tribute from District 12, all the while deciding if she is willing to kill strangers her own age as a pawn of an oppressive government.

The Hunger Games is the first book in a trilogy, and it was re- *leased in 2008. I wish I had known it was a trilogy before I finished the book, because then I would have been prepared for the ending, which was a transition into the next book rather than a totally satisfying end. The third and final installment of the series came out in August 2010. Suzanne Collins, the author, worked for Nickelodeon and wrote The Overlander before she wrote The Hunger Games. The Hunger Games won several awards and was a New York Times bestseller. Once I started reading it, I could not put it down.*

The Games provided a backdrop to one of the most enthralling plots I have ever read. Katniss constantly battles thirst, fire, hunger, wild animals, injuries, and other teenagers for survival. She makes and loses friends, and I became so attached to her and her fellow tribute from District 12 that I was dying to find out how the book ended. While the plot is mainly what drives this book, the creativity of this future world and the concept of the Games also impressed me. In addition, the characters are all very strong and exhibit character development throughout the book.

*Overall, The Hunger Games was an excellent, enthralling read that I highly recommend. It was a fantastic book with a wonderfully creative plot.*

Hunger is black,

Like a deep hole in the middle of nowhere.

It falls through my stomach,
Like a shooting star falling from the sky.

It makes me feel empty,
Like a hollow tree with no warmth.
It makes me want to share my food with others.

Every 3.6 seconds a person
dies of hunger

75%
of them are children

Hunger is blue,

*Like the depths of the ocean.
It tumbles through my mind,
Like a stone tumbling down a hill.
It makes me feel depressed,
Like a child whose parent
Can not feed him or her.
It makes me want to help somebody.*

DIE of HUNGER

Hunger is gray,

Like a rain cloud over my head
It sits in my heart,
Like a heavy load I have to carry.
It makes me feel scared,
Like when I'm away from my family.
It makes feel sorry for those who have no food.

Hunger is brown,

Like a hollow log inside of me.
It flows through my body,
Like a raft on a river.
It makes me feel empty,
Like a shell that's been left behind.
It makes me want to help others.
